

“Creating My Career Path – Embracing Change in My Journey”

Thought about this moment for such a long time What will I do when I graduate?
Will the plans in my dreams still be?
Or will I change it because of fear, lack of confidence, and self esteem I realized I can be anything I want That I can do all things through Christ Trust me, it wasn't easy I wanted to give up in this life
I didn't create my career path
But the path was already there I just needed to hear God's voice and follow him Because through him I have no fear For that is not his portion For I have love, power, and a sound mind Following God not knowing what tomorrow may hold
But what you seek you shall find Whatever is in his will
It shall be done
Not a will of my own But keeping God first in all that I do so my will is none
None that I would follow Because he has called me for a greater purpose And with that comes change

Only for the better Every plan and decision in his great name The woman I've grown to know As I look in the mirror, I see a future that I didn't see before Making a difference in this world Spreading joy, peace, love, and so much more So, the change was necessary And the path of righteousness I'm walking in and through Abide in God, as he abides in you
As I continue to acknowledge him
In all my ways, he directs my path Giving me guidance Blessing my desires of all that I seek to have So, this change that I have endured Is because of God and him alone
To be a vessel to his people To draw them to a place they can call home In this given moment My journey has just begun And even through the obstacles I may face And in the storm, there is still sun Shining through the darkness
And walking in the light
And my future ahead is just as bright
